

It's a crazy world out there! Creating the things you want to happen is more challenging than it's ever been. You've got to pull out all the stops to get what you want...

Our speaker today is a body language expert and a leader in training people to persuade and influence. She travels the country teaching corporations and association how to hear "Yes!" from others more easily and more often. She even trains lawyers how to pick and persuade a jury using body language.

She's a frequent guest on TV interpreting the body language of criminals and politicians. (And sometimes both labels describe the same person!)

She's the author of 3 books

Her new Amazon bestseller, Persuasion Point,

Body Language Confidential and Body Language for Profits.

Today she's going to share with us secrets of strategic use of body language. Hold on to your hats and be ready to take lots of notes. We're in for some fun!

Please hold your applause until after this really cool video
